Where reasonably possible Spryng will notify Customer in advance and in writing (by email or via the Website) of material changes to the Services.

In particular Spryng cannot accept responsibility for the timely and correct handling of sent electronic messages.
- 2.4. Spryng is entitled to suspend the services temporarily when this is necessary to implement a change to the Services or to conduct preventive or corrective maintenance activities with respect to the Services. Spryng will inform Customer in advance and in writing (by email or via the Website) where reasonably possible in case of activities planned by Spryng and of activities planned by third party providers of which Spryng is aware, which have a foreseeable material impact on the Services.

3. OBLIGATIONS OF CUSTOMER

- 3.1. Customer must provide Spryng at the start of and during the use of the Services on request and on its own initiative with all information and all data relevant to enable the provision of the Services. Customer vouches for the completeness and correctness of all supplied information. 3.2. In particular Customer will keep Spryng up to date of all foreseeable peaks or massive increases in its use of the Services to help prevent overloading the Services and/or the networks and systems of the suppliers of Spryng.

- 3.2. Spryng has no obligation to check completeness and correctness of the information provided by Customer. If Spryng provides any advice on this, then this is done voluntarily and with the explicit exclusion of any liability for such advice.

4. PRICES AND PAYMENT FOR THE SERVICES

- 4.1. The prices applicable from time to time to the Services are set out on the Website and are (unless explicitly otherwise noted or agreed in writing) valid until publication of a change of the prices on the Website. Price increases are announced at least one month in advance, unless it concerns passing on the price increases of a third party supplier of Spryng which were notified to Spryng less than a month in advance.
- 4.2. All prices are excluding applicable VAT and other applicable taxes and government charges and are in SGD, unless explicitly set out otherwise.

- 4.5. Objections of Customer against the amount of the invoice do not create the right to suspend payment of the invoice unless Spryng acknowledges the objections. Customer is not allowed to set off or deduct any alleged counterclaims on Spryng from sent invoices.
- 4.6. Subscription, license, connection or similar fixed, usage independent charges for the Services are, unless explicitly noted or agreed otherwise, due in advance. Spryng will in case Customer objects against the usage dependant charges or debited credits conduct an investigation into this in a reasonable and transparent manner and report the results to Customer. Customer explicitly does not have the right to suspend payment of any invoice on the basis of any such objection.
- 4.11. If Customer is in default of payment with respect to any amount due to Spryng, then interest will accrue on the outstanding amount against the Singapore legal interest rate for business transactions. If Customer remains in default of payment after it has been sent a formal notice, then Spryng can engage a third party to collect the payment, in which case Customer will also be due to pay the related collection costs and legal costs, with a minimum of 250 SGD.
- 4.12. If Spryng incurs additional costs or has to spent additional time to provide the Services due to a shortcoming of Customer or due to a violation of any legal or contractual obligation by Customer, then Spryng can invoice these additional costs and the additionally spent time at its then current rates, without prejudice to the right of Spryng to claim compensation for suffered damage.
- 4.13. Spryng is entitled to demand advance payment of charges for the Services on the basis of a good faith assessment by Spryng of the amounts, which will be due for the Services in the next 3 months.
